Allies Advance Deep Into Heart Of Crumbling Reich

Greatest Military Debate In History Now In Progress

By J. C. OESTREICHER
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

The greatest military debate of all time, far exceeding in scope and historic potentialities the successive destructions of Carthage, Rome and the Napoleonic empire, is taking place on the soil of Nazi Germany today.

While strict censorship still cloaked many details of vast Allied operations extending from the Ruhr through Frankfurt and western Bavaria almost to the border of Switzerland, it was clearly evident that Adolf Hitler's once invincible armies are falling apart in bits and pieces.

Soviet Speed Attack

At the same time, a noticeable acceleration of Soviet advances through western Hungary reduced to mere days the moment when the major part of Germany will have been overrun by American, British and Russian troops and the so-called "National Redoubt" in Bavaria rendered untenable for anything more than the most futile and disorganized type of guerrilla warfare.

Towns and cities that crept into news dispatches as prizes or immediate objectives of the advancing Allies took on an almost fantastic ring. Armored units of the rampaging American Third Army sped 50 miles northeast of Frankfurt to menace Fulda—important to industry but also well-known as the annual meeting place of Catholic Bishops who year after year voiced their courageous disapproval of Nazi tenets.

Pound Against Nuremberg

Other Third Army detachments were reported pounding against Nuremberg, the veritable shrine of Nazism, whose capture would pose an immediate threat to Munich itself.

And Berlin was rapidly coming within range of Allied as well as Russian armies. Field Marshal Sir (Continued on Page Two)

This certainly should be the first of the season. A gentleman was seen on the East Side this morning wearing a straw hat.

Some dog owners say they would be glad if the holes in the dog tags were standard. They complain that new holes have to be placed in the dog collars almost every year. Kind of tough on collars.

This morning was pleasing to the eye to see a number of beds of hyacinths interspersed with stately daffodils in the yard of the Kurtz property, corner Croton and Washington streets. The hyacinth bell formed blooms were of various hues.

MANILA, March 27.—Four-engine heavy bombers and attack planes poured 250 tons of high explosives on important Japanese defense positions on Cebu Island, in the Central Philippines, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

LONDON, March 27.—(INS)—RAF Lancasters showered 11-ton bombs on Nazi U-boat pens, oil plants and benzol refineries by daylight today amid Nazi hints that Bremen also was assaulted.

Submarine yards at Farge near Vegesack, oil depots nearby and benzol plants at Koenigsborn and Sachsen were attacked, the air ministry announced.

The assaults, which came while the German radio was reporting other Allied formations over Bremen, followed the 25th consecutive night attack on Berlin by RAF Mosquitos.

The night assault came after Allied heavy bombers and fighters had scourged the tottering Reich for the 42nd consecutive day.

More than 300 American heavyweights, supported by 450 Mustangs, blasted industrial plants at Plauen, 40 miles southwest of Chemnitz, and at Zeitz, 20 miles south of Leipzig.

Russian Forces Racing Toward Austrian Border

One Red Army Spearhead Is Now Reported Within 70 Miles Of Vienna

NEW NAZI DEFEAT IN BALTIC SECTOR

By NATALIA RENE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, March 27.—Soviet Third Ukrainian army columns raced to within 27 miles of the Austrian border after capturing the key communications town of Papa, northwest of Lake Balaton, and advancing three miles beyond the town.

Front dispatches said that the Austrian border zone already was within the sound of Russian guns as one red army spearhead reached within 70 miles of Vienna.

Simultaneously the second Ukrainian army moved along the southern bank of the Danube and through the mountains of Slovakia, capturing the German stronghold of Banska-Bystrica on the Hron river and smashing German defenses before the vital Bratislava gap.

Five Senators Going To Europe

Will Inquire Into Plans For Use Of Equipment After End Of European War

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 27.—A special committee of five senators today planned an early hop-off for Europe on a military investigation trip with the hope of entering Berlin with American soldiers.

Those chosen for the trip are: Sens. Chandler (D) Ky., Hill (D) Ala., Maybank (D) S. C., and Bridges (R) N. H., military affairs committee, and Russell (D) Ga., appropriations committee. Bridges is a member of both committees.

Probe Transfer Plans

The senators will make a special investigation of how much equipment will be used in the Japanese war after Germany is crushed.

They also plan to learn what method the army will use in the transfer of fighting men from the European to the Pacific theater—what kind of furloughs will be given pending transfer and what soldiers will be discharged.

The inquiry, it was learned, resulted primarily from a secret session held recently with Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson, during which he was closely questioned on plans to utilize European equipment in the Pacific.

Earlier authoritative War Production Board reports said that military equipment would be left in Europe and new equipment would be manufactured for use against the Japanese.

The men were returned by ship from the Pacific.

All of the casualties brought with them tales of the "terrific fighting on Iwo, which they unanimously described as the worst they had ever seen. Many of the men were veterans of several Pacific campaigns.

Breaking Of Rhine Defense Line Dooms Northern Germany

By CAPTAIN JOHN H. CRAIGIE
(Written Especially For International News Service)

With American and British forces streaming across the Rhine like jets of water spurting from a leaky hose, it has become evident that the battle for that classic river is finished and the war is entering a new stage in which possession of the great Westphalian plain of northern Germany will be the prize of the struggle.

With Lieut. Gen. Courtney Hodges' First American Army in Limburg, more than 20 miles east of the Rhine, and Patton's 3d Army in possession of bridges over the Main river at Frankfurt and Aschaffenburg, the entire length of the difficult section of the Rhine valley stretching from Mannheim to Cologne is flanked out and must be abandoned by Nazi forces except suicide squads left to delay the American advance. In addition to these reported crossings by the Seventh American Army west of Karlsruhe and the French First Army near Strasbourg, present serious threats to German withdrawal towards the south, should such be attempted.

Progress In War Against Japanese Exceeds Forecasts

But Admiral King Warns No Quick And Easy Victory Can Be Anticipated

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(INS)—Advances in the Japanese war in the past year have been ahead of expectations, Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King reported today but added, "a quick and easy Pacific victory cannot be taken for granted, even after the European war is over."

In his annual report to Secretary of Navy James V. Forrestal, King declared that there can be no hope for demobilization of naval forces after the end of the European war although there have been reports that the Pacific conflict is running ahead of schedule.

"Actually we have had no schedule, except to go as far and as fast as the means at hand would permit," King reported. "It can be said that the war today is ahead of our expectations last year. This should stimulate rather than sap our determination to carry on with every means we can muster."

"I have said before, and I repeat—a quick and easy Pacific victory cannot be taken for granted, even after the European war is over."

Nazi Commentator Warns Germany

LONDON, March 27.—(INS)—A Nazi commentator broadcasting over the German-controlled Hilversum radio admitted today that the war situation was acute and told his listeners that they must be prepared for more bad news from the front.

Another German radio spokesman dejectedly admitted:

"There is little of our material possessions left. What is left may tomorrow be reduced to rubble and ashes."

VON RUNDSTEDT UNDER ARREST?

LONDON, March 27.—(INS)—Arrest of Nazi Field Marshal Karl Gerd von Rundstedt, former German commander on the western front, was reported today by the Soviet news agency Tass.

Two sources were quoted by the Soviet agency. One, a Paris report, said Von Rundstedt was arrested after his dismissal as western front commander. The second, from Stockholm, reported that the marshal was under house arrest at his estate in Kassel where he was said to be ill.

Stockholm also was quoted as reporting that Von Rundstedt's son had been taken into custody and confined to the Ingolstadt fortress.

Heavy Bombardment Of Islands Under Way—Japs Make Claims On Invasion

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ADVANCED PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, March 27.—American warships and carrier planes supporting an "invasion" of the Ryukyu archipelago continuously bombarded the Okinawa Islands, the enemy radio declared today after claiming that Yank landing attempts were completely "prevented."

The Japanese broadcasts claimed that air and ground units of the islands' garrisons were "intercepting" the U. S. task force and destroyed or damaged five cruisers and destroyers in waters but 400 miles south of Japan itself.

Silent on "Invasion"

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, in his regular communique earlier in the day, revealed the fourth straight day of fleet action against the Okinawa group in the Ryukyu chain. His announcement, which neither confirmed nor denied previous reports that the "invasion" of these islands was underway, said that carrier planes attacked airfields and other installations on Okinawa on Monday while "fast battleships" took shore installations under fire.

The officially-announced shelling of Okinawa was the third time (Continued on Page Two)

Bombers Based In Italy Aid Reds' Attack In East

ROME, March 27.—(INS)—Key German communication centers through which badly needed supplies were funneled to the eastern front lay in shattered wreckage today, the result of sustained aerial attacks by the Mediterranean air force yesterday.

A headquarters communique, announcing that land action on the fifth and eighth army fronts again was limited to patrol activity, detailed yesterday's heavy sky blows, during which 1,400 sorties were flown.

Hit Railway Lines

Strong forces of heavy bombers assaulted railway lines in Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Austria, striking at yards, rolling stock, bridges and rights of way, the statement said.

Light bombers attacked rail, highway and river targets in the Po valley, while coastal planes went after shipping in the Adriatic and rolling stock in Yugoslavia and the Balkan air force blasted bridges and yards in the latter area.

Five enemy planes were destroyed, the communique said, and 12 allied planes lost, including six heavy bombers.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, March 27.—The German army as a military force on the western front is a "whipped army," Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told a news conference today.

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, March 27.—Collapse of all organized enemy resistance in western Germany became an imminent possibility today with unimpeded American and British advances deep into the heart of the crumbling Reich.

Headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, reporting on the actual war front situation as it probably existed a full 24 hours ago, confirmed a 33-mile dash to the east by United States First Army troops and predicted an early break-through in the 21st Army Group area to the north.

A headquarters spokesman confirmed front-line dispatches revealing the virtual collapse of German resistance in this sector except on the left flank.

President Orders All Cabinet And Diplomatic Representatives To Stand By On Alert

By LEON PEARSON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 27.—President Roosevelt today ordered his cabinet and all diplomatic representatives to stand by on the alert for a possible immediate victory in Europe.

The White House disclosed that Mr. Roosevelt has instructed all diplomatic representatives to remain close to the posts in Europe to be ready to act on any emergency or the speedy collapse of Germany.

The chief executive also urged all cabinet officers to be on alert in Washington, to remain at their posts and to make no plans for attending the United Nations conference which begins in San Francisco April 25.

At the same time Mr. Roosevelt directed that the American delegation to the next summit meeting keep its advisers to a minimum compact group.

Jonathan Daniels, White House secretary, disclosed the president's action. He said it was two-fold—no keep key officials at their posts in a critical time and to avoid congestion of travel and hotel facilities at San Francisco.

Y. Membership Drive Now On

Men's Division Inaugurates Campaign With Dinner Meeting In Y. M. C. A. Monday Evening

At a dinner meeting in the local Y. M. C. A. Monday evening, the men's division which will take part in the annual membership drive of the association met for their only dinner meeting of the drive, and final plans for the campaign were talked over.

President John P. Boyles called on Rev. P. P. Sulmonetti for the invocation. After the dinner, Mr. Boyles spoke on the work done by the association and the need for the membership drive at a time when many of the young men who have supported the membership drives in the past are in the service.

Introduces Chairman
Mr. Boyles introduced Jesse N. Kerr, general chairman of this year's campaign. Mr. Kerr expressed his appreciation of the fine support being given in the current drive, as manifested by the large number in attendance.

Lee Campbell, chairman of the Blue division, who has been in service for the past two years, expressed his appreciation at being back home and able to work in the campaign again, and promised the Red division would be heard from, Alex Samuels, chairman of the Blue division, spoke on the need for such work as the Y. M. C. A. carries on, particularly in three days of increased juvenile delinquency. He suggested the work of the association as an outlet for the energies of these young men and boys.

Chairman Kerr introduced General Secretary R. L. Meermans, who spoke briefly, and in turn introduced Joe Reed, one of the outstanding members of the boys' division, who has turned in 13 new members in the first three days of the boys' division campaign. Mr. Meermans also urged the workers to complete their solicitation as soon as possible, so that the drive can be finished by the second report meeting, scheduled for April 2. The first reports are due on March 29.

Baltic lagoon of Frisches Haff, southeast of Koensberg, capturing more than 21,000 German officers and men.

The Russians also tightened their grip about the pocketed Germans in the free city of Danzig, capturing 17 more towns and villages and driving to within a mile of the Baltic fortress, fall of which was declared by Moscow to be imminent.

More than 100 towns and villages were scooped up by Marshal Fedor I. Tolbukhin's third Ukrainian front, which also seized the key town of Dvinsk, 17 miles south of Papan, as they rolled toward Austria on a wide front.

More Gains Made

Marshal Rodio Y. Malinkovsky's second Ukrainian army seized of Banská-Bystřica—the highway hub which sprawls over both banks of the Hron, also threw the Nazis out of the village of Radvan which dominates the city from the south. The industrial center of Papan fell to the red army after bitter street fighting in which thousands of Germans were wiped out, 88 tanks and armored cars destroyed, and upwards of 1,000 enemy officers and men taken prisoner.

In the fighting for Frisches Haff, Marshal Alexander Vassilievsky's troops drove the Nazis from Deutschbanau and captured Rosenberg.

Meanwhile the last defense ring before Danzig was penetrated as the Russians captured the suburb of Oliva and captured 1,300 Nazi officers and men.

London, March 27.—Russian forces have broken into the southern fringes of Gdynia, the important Polish Baltic port north of Danzig, Col. Ernest von Hammer, Nazi DNB agency commentator, said today.

Von Hammer added that the attacking force later was wiped out by "furious German counter-fire," but admitted the Russians were attacking the port from the south and west "without pause."

Dog Quarantine Notices Posted

City policemen today were posting dog quarantine notices not only in the seventh but also other wards of the city because the state department of animals reported recently to Police Chief Robert D. Hanna that a dog which bit several persons in the seventh ward had hydrophobia.

Dogs must be confined to leash and under control at all times. Otherwise they will be shot, the chief stated.

GREATEST MILITARY DEBACLE IN HISTORY NOW IN PROGRESS

Bernard L. Montgomery's 21st Army Group finally smashed stubborn resistance in the Rees area opposite Wesel and high staff officers were authority for the statement that no well-organized German defenses lie between them and the battered German capital.

On the northern German plains which soon will lie at the mercy of British, Canadian and United States Ninth army forces, the principal Allied problem now is one of supply—and the same automatically must present itself to "Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges and Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr. Huge amounts of war materials must be rushed across the Rhine to eliminate any outside possibility of advance forces being left without all the fuel and ammunition they may need for any contingency.

Significant Action

Highly significant in the face of present events, with seven separate Allied armies in overwhelming strength now east of the Rhine and boxing ever deeper into Germany's heart, was an unprecedented action taken by President Roosevelt in Washington.

The chief executive ordered his cabinet and all members of the United States foreign service abroad to remain close to their posts. At any moment, he indicated, they may be called upon to handle a sudden emergency—and the most likely crisis in the light of current Allied progress would be complete collapse of all organized resistance by the German armies.

To all intents and purposes, this phase has now almost been reached in western Europe. There are isolated pockets of resistance which may take some time to clean out and how long the hold-out Nazis in southern Germany can function as guerrilla gangsters is anybody's guess.

The Germans lost their last chance when they failed to hold the Rhine.

JAPANESE SAY YANKS LANDING ON CEBU ISLAND

On Cebu, which is one of the last two major Philippine Islands to be invaded by the Liberation troops. Negros, to the west, also remains in Jap hands.

Warships Aid Move

"The Japanese broadcast said that six cruisers and "several" destroyers supported the assault troops who began landing on the island's east coast. There are two Taisays on Cebu, both on that side of the island.

FCC monitors picked up the broadcast.

According to MacArthur's communique, which told also of the tabulation of 15,024 more Jap casualties in the islands, the U. S. airmen targeted enemy supplies, defenses and railway installations near Cebu City.

Attack Legasi

Other heavy and medium bombers, with fighter escort, attacked Legasi at the southern tip of Luzon. More than 200 tons of bombs were dropped on coast defenses and communications installations, touching off "large" fires and explosions.

Troops of the 25th and 32nd Divisions continued to clear out centers of enemy resistance covering the Balate Pass-Santa area, while forces in the 14th and 11th Corps sectors continued their advances south and east of Manila.

MacArthur's communique, dealing with the subject of Jap casualties in the Philippines, said that since March 16—"When enemy casualties were reported as approximately 282,000—14,853 more Jap dead were counted. In addition, 171 more prisoners were taken.

PARIS REPORTS NAZIS CAN'T HALT HUGE ALLIED DRIVES

columns straggling 40 miles beyond Aschaffenburg are menacing five airfields—used by enemy jet-propelled planes.

(Another Blue network correspondent with the First Army said a column of from 5,000 to 10,000 German prisoners is moving to the rear today, while American troops "are jubilant with the spirit of victory.")

Military observers in Paris said that, from a strategic viewpoint, the battle of western Europe has been won. Although the actual Nazi collapse may be days, or weeks, in the future, the enemy high command no longer can maintain a cohesive defense line, these sources said.

Resistance Crumbling

Frontline dispatches from all sectors of the front reported enemy resistance crumbling, except on one tiny corner of the far northern sector. The Allied blows were described as cutting a path through the enemy lines through which powerful Allied motorized units are beginning to streak for the deep interior of the Reich.

"The Germans simply cannot stop the Allies now," a Reuters reporter with the British Second Army said correspondents were told. The speed of the Allied advance was limited only by commanders' ability to move fresh motorized units across the Rhine and up to the front, he added.

One correspondent with the British Second Army, in the bridgehead area east of Wesel on the Rhine, reported it appeared as though organized German resistance in the west was ending.

The whole defense system of the Nazis beyond Wesel was reported collapsing, providing openings for Allied troops to drive their vehicles of war toward the heart of Germany.

Internal accounts said that the only coordinated German defense was observed in a small sector beyond Rees.

New Crossings Planned

The German DNB agency reported that the continued use by the British of smoke shells on a large scale indicated that Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery was preparing new crossings of the Rhine near Emmerich, northwest of Rees.

International News Service War Correspondent John E. Lee reported that the chief factor governing the British break-through at the northern end of the Western front now is a question of obtaining a sufficient build-up east of the Rhine.

The process of British reinforcement is proceeding rapidly. Allied bridgeheads have been thrown across the Rhine in the Second Army sector. The bridgehead area has been so expanded that there now is room on the east side of the Rhine for new formations being brought across to maneuver.

Drive On Essen

"The London Evening Standard quoted a Paris Radio report which said that Marshal Montgomery's troops were within nine miles of the industrial city of Essen in the Ruhr. An earlier London radio report, received by the Blue Network, placed U. S. Ninth Army forces within three miles of Essen.

The general picture at the northern end of the front is that the British expect to "start motoring" into the interior of Germany as soon as the build-up of forces across the Rhine permits.

Information in the field is that the Germans have no strategic reserve on the Western front and will have none unless they take some strength from the Russian front, which at present it appears they are unwilling to do.

Regarded as Propaganda

German threats of a tremendous surprise awaiting the Allies in the interior of the Reich were regarded as sheer Nazi propaganda.

A steady stream of supplies poured across to the British army over the eight Rhine bridges in their area. Supreme headquarters confirmed reports that Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First Army, sweeping eastward from the Remagen bridgehead, drove 22 miles forward to enter Limburg.

Official information concerning Gen. Patton's drive announced the advance into the outskirts of Frankfurt. Gen. Patton's men also were revealed to have rumbled on farther southeast after the powerful Fourth Armored Division had cleared a seven-mile stretch of the Main river and crossed that waterway in the vicinity of Aschaffenburg.

Points of greatest advance were not immediately revealed.

The Third Army, spearheaded by the rampaging Fourth Armored Division, slashed into the German city of Frankfurt-Am-Main and unofficial and unconfirmed reports said that spearheads of Gen. Patton's army were nearing the city of Wuerzburg.

Gen. Hodges' advanced forces plunged 22 miles east from points in the enlarged Ramagen bridgehead to reach Limburg, 20 miles east of Coblenz.

line of the Rhine probably the gravest menace of all is the crossing effected far to the north near the Dutch border by Field Marshal Sir Bernard Montgomery's 21st Army group of Americans, British and Canadians.

The reason for the threatening nature of the break in the German Rhine line of defenses here lies in the fact that from the Rhine near the Dutch border the great plan of North Germany rolls to Berlin approximately 300 miles to the east, without mountains, hills or other defensive barriers of major importance.

Once a break-through is effected, there will be nothing to prevent the American-British machine from going into the high-gear mechanized war that swept through France in less than two months last summer and fall.

Cannot Be Stopped

With the powerful defensive barrier of the Rhine broken in half a dozen places, it does not seem possible that the Nazi Wehrmacht can stop the great American-British machine from going into the high-gear mechanized war that swept through France in less than two months last summer and fall.

The breaking of the Rhine line seems to write the doom of northern Germany, but the southern German states are covered with some of the ruggedest mountains in Europe. If the Nazis still have the will to fight, they will find a ready-made fortress in their Alpine territories.

DINNER-SHOWER

FOR BRIDE-ELECT

Miss Martha McGill, bride-elect of Wednesday, was the guest of honor at a dinner-shower given Saturday evening by Miss Ingeborg Hallgren at her home, 511 Meyer avenue.

A colonial bouquet centering the table was the keynote of the decorative theme effectively carried out in placecards, the color scheme, and throughout dinner.

Games were a diversion during the evening at the conclusion of which a shower of recipes and appropriate accompanying gifts was presented to the guest of honor. Each gift was accompanied not only by a recipe but by a suitable rhyme.

Miss Edna Stroh of Youngstown was an out-of-town guest.

Miss McGill will be married Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at home to Earl T. Weston of Ambridge.

Different Story Now Developing

Even among American front line soldiers, who know from experience that there is still plenty of fighting ahead before German resistance is finally crushed, there is a growing feeling that the war cannot go on much longer. They believe and they are saying openly, according to correspondents on the ground, that the end is in sight.

This conviction clashes with official warnings against excessive optimism, and it is true that fighting men shared the overconfidence of the home front last summer when the Battle of France was coming to a close. But since then American fighters have beaten the enemy time and again, only to have to repeat the process, and they have now had ample opportunity to learn to know their adversaries. They are not likely to be wrong this time.

Certainly the military situation today differs from that of six months ago. Then the Germans had suffered a disastrous defeat, but they could still retire to the West Wall, they still had great quantities of military material, their factories were still turning out supplies in volume, and the bottom of the manpower barrel had not been scraped. Now the West Wall has been smashed and the Germans no longer have the troops or the weapons to man their East and West fronts simultaneously.

The basis for this conclusion stands forth clearly in the spectacle of Allied armies surging across the Rhine and striking for the interior of Germany. The fact that the Germans lost 100,000 men in the Saar is proof that Hitler never intended to lose this vital territory. But the Wehrmacht can no longer defend even a fortified terrain well adapted to defense. Its days are plainly numbered as Allied men, planes and armor wreak unprecedented damage from one end of Germany to the other.

Nazis Fear Reds

There may be no truth in the rumors that German military leaders have made proposals to the United Nations to bring about an end of the war, but there can be little doubt about the accompanying statement in the dispatch—Nazis fear the Red army.

This fear has been expressed a number of times in recent months, when Propagandist Goebbels and other German spokesmen broadcast that communism would overrun Europe, and that only the defeat of Russia would prevent it.

The United States and Great Britain have not become alarmed over such a prospect, but instead have been giving Russia all possible aid in fighting the war on the Eastern Front. American bombers have been striking the German lines east of Berlin.

Nazi leaders may well fear capture of Berlin by the Russians, for Russia has a long list of crimes against the German military, and the Nazis may well fear to be called to account for them. Cowards always cringe when facing punishment.

Hitler's armies have been taking a good trouncing in the east, and the Russian forces may be in Berlin before many weeks. The Nazis have several hundred thousand reasons—murdered Poles and Russians—for fearing the Reds.

Rubber's New Boss

The loss of the East Indies, following the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor, created the first of the nation's critical war shortages. Today, after more than three years of war, the problem still is acute.

It is not primarily a lack of the basic raw material, to be sure, which has produced a rubber situation which officials term the most critical since Pearl Harbor. Synthetic rubber is being manufactured at a stupendous rate and the output is increasing steadily. Current troubles have been caused by shortages of other materials which go into tires, such as carbon black and rayon and cotton cords.

The first crisis in rubber was not surmounted until the administration got around to appointing a thoroughly competent "rubber boss" with full authority to get the job done. After William E. Jeffers had put through the construction program for synthetic plants, along the lines recommended by the BRuch program, he resigned and the post lapsed.

To meet the current situation the logical move is to appoint a new boss, and this is what Chairman Krug of the War Production Board has done. John L. Collier has been named special director of rubber programs with full powers.

As president of B. F. Goodrich company Mr. Collier is thoroughly familiar with the problems involved. He is a good choice for one of the war's most important jobs—the task of producing the greatest number of tires in the shortest possible period of time to keep the wheels of war and transport rolling.

What 'Wounded' Means

Like every other variety of statistics, casualty figures are apt to be misleading unless it is explained precisely what they mean. The term "wounded" covers everything from men with a cut finger to soldiers who may be terribly crippled for life. Among the missing are troops temporarily separated from their units, soldiers who have fallen into the hands of the enemy, and others who will never return.

Secretary of the Navy Forrestal's breakdown of the Marine casualties in the bloody battle for Iwo Jima will help Americans to understand more clearly what the figures mean.

In addition to the 4,600 killed and missing in taking this island, 15,300 received wounds of varying degree.

But this does not imply, as Mr. Forrestal points out, that all of the 15,300 were put out of action permanently or even for a protracted period of time. Between 6,000 and 7,000 of the total, in fact, had recovered sufficiently to return to their divisions before the fall of the island. On the basis of experience, it is reasonable to hope that 5,000 more will be fully restored to health. If these hopes are realized, between 11,000 and 12,000 of the wounded will be able to return to normal, active lives.

This is not to say that the losses suffered by the Marines on Iwo were not horrible and tragically high. Even the wounds that will heal in time can cause terrible anguish and suffering. No one would for a moment attempt to belittle what the wounded have gone through or what many of them have to endure for weary months to come. But it is a slight comfort to remember that 98 of every 100 sailors and Marines wounded in the past three years have recovered and that these men have an equal chance.

With Jimmy Byrnes' night club curfew in effect the fellow who "stood on the bridge at midnight" can now go back and stand on the bridge again.

It is amazing that the War department, in the practice of rewarding everybody and everything contributing to victory, has not come up with something nice for the bulldozer.

CHILDSOpinions Differ On Early End Of War

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Returning from battered, broken Europe, your first impression is of the miraculous way in which everything here at home looks as it had looked before. Accustomed to destruction and chaos, you can hardly believe at first that the surface of life, at least, is just the same.

Likewise, the headlines heralding the great new sweep across the Rhine seem to have little relation to the roar and the stench and the fife of battle. In spite of the best efforts of front line reporters, it sounds far easier than it actually was. Military planners back at supreme headquarters had hardly dared to hope for such swift successes as seem to have come with the first push of the allied armies. The tension steadily mounted as the hour for the final go signal drew near.

Most Difficult Operation

There were a great many reasons to worry and wonder, even after every possible step had been taken to insure the success of what was bound to be one of the most difficult operations in military history. The Rhine has always been a treacherous river. It is subject to sudden and unexpected floods. A bad break in the weather, a heavy downpour of rain and a sudden flood—and the result might have been disaster. At many points the Rhine is 40 feet or more in depth, with a hard bottom that makes bridging a nightmare. All these things were in the minds of the men responsible for final plans. What they have succeeded in doing, with the help of favorable breaks in the weather, will go down, I believe, as one of the great military achievements of all time. Behind it is the prolonged and infinitely painstaking preparation that has marked every major move by the allies in this war.

Long Preparation

The same kind of preparation on an even greater scale preceded the Normandy invasion. These huge leaps take preparation on a scale almost impossible to imagine, and they take resolution. Right up to the zero hour on D-day there were those who felt that General Eisenhower, as head of the Allied Expeditionary Force, was leading an invasion of France would be suicidal.

It is for us to understand and appreciate the magnitude of American arms, of American technical skill, of the sheer guts that Americans have shown in moving from Normandy into the heart of Germany. The military machine assembled by the Germans, who have made war their business for two hundred years, is crumbling under the onslaught of what is literally a peoples' army.

See Early End

How soon organized resistance will end in Germany is still a question. During recent weeks, responsible Britishers have been more optimistic than our own battle leaders. In London they have been saying for some time that the European war would be officially declared ended in May. They have gone ahead with plans for a general election during June—approximately a month after the war should be ended.

This optimism has been based on the conviction that once the Rhine was crossed, allied armies would push on with little or no effective opposition toward Berlin. Our own commanders have been more cautious. They knew that Germany is defeated and that if logic prevailed, surrender would long since have occurred.

Fanatics Still Have Guns

But they do not discount the fierce fanaticism of the Gestapo and the Waffen SS, who know that whatever happens, their life is sealed. The Nazi fanatics still have guns. They are turning those guns on anyone who wavers, either in the front line or back of the line.

Nothing like a final surrender is expected by our military planners. They know that no one is left in Germany to surrender. When the commanding general of a German division puts up the white flag, he and the remnants of his troops will be herded back into the prisoner-of-war cages. The same thing will happen to corps commanders and even army commanders.

Undoubtedly, the last stand will come in the mountains of southern Germany. There the Nazi fanatics, including some excellent troops, will make a final stand; and that is not discounted either.

Having talked to a great many Yanks in every corner of Europe, from GI's in the ranks to top generals, I believe their advice at this moment would be to resist the pull of hope. Go on working. That is what they say. It will not be over until the last German battalion has surrendered.

JUST A THOUGHT
Just a second's thought like this:
"This morning I was lucky, but I was not. The poor man suffers, miss. And the self-same death we die!"

And there'd be, beyond a doubt, Less of bitterness about.

Just the wondering: "Were I At the bench, from day to day, Or must sell what others buy?" Would I be as brave as they? And the sharp and cruel word Not so often would be heard.

Just the recollection swift All a gracious act will go; How a cheering word can lift, And the strength of man renew And, beyond a doubt, we should Closer come to brotherhood.

TWELVE "T'S"

If you want friends, be friendly to the people with whom you come in daily contact, never subservient to superiors nor impatient with those under you.

If you want to be respected, first learn to respect yourself, and to always keep your promises, regardless of personal loss or discomfort.

If you want to earn more money, you must learn to assume responsibility by mastering your own habits and be willing to practice self-denial and unselfishness.

If you want justice, you must be fair and tolerant with others. If you want love, do not be stingy with your affection. Learn to say and do the little things that show you are attentive and devoted.

If you aspire to becoming great, you must first train yourself to be humble and considerate of others... but firm.

If you want to be popular, learn to say something nice about everyone you happen to be discussing. Never say an unkind word about anyone.

If you want to control others, do not be arrogant nor domineering. And first learn to control your own temper.

If you want consideration, be considerate of others. Be well-mannered and kind rather than insolent. Be courteous without fawning.

If you want to keep your character and reputation above suspicion and abuse, keep good company or none.

If you aspire to financial independence learn to save part of what you earn. Learn to respect the rights of others but be mindful of your own rights.

If you want to be strong, train yourself to a schedule of daily exercise—mental as well as physical.

Great Game
Of PoliticsBy FRANK R. KENT

By The Baltimore SunMayor LeGuardia In Unsympathetic Plight

WASHINGTON, March 27.—FEW PERSONS will sympathize with Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia if as a result of his truest action in refusing to support the national 12 o'clock conference in New York he gets into both personal and political hot water. On the contrary, there will be a pretty general feeling that it serves him damn well right.

AT THE moment there seems an excellent prospect that the water will be very hot and that he will be into it up to his almost nonexistent neck. For not only has the outside reaction been extremely unfavorable to Mr. LaGuardia but within his own city the restaurant, bar and nightclub owners, who were expected enthusiastically to cheer this defiance of the Government, have refused to follow the Mayor and are adhering to the "curfew." This action follows the army and navy directions to soldiers and sailors in New York to observe the Government request and the widespread charge that New York, alone among the cities, puts pleasure above patriotism.

THUS, the Little Flower, despite his recent protestations of helpfulness, is left looking not only unco-operative but futile and ridiculous. In addition it is reliably reported that the political and personal relations between him and the President have been badly dislocated by the incident and he is extremely unlikely to have Administration support in his effort to secure another term. The prediction is that White House might well be firm behind District Attorney O'Dwyer, of Brooklyn. This probably will insure his nomination and end the hope of the Mayor for another term. All of which shows how completely Mr. LaGuardia miscalculated the effects of his defiance and how far it has fallen short of making him a hero in his own town.

IT IS true a defense can be made for the LaGuardia position. It is true, too, that some criticism may be justly applied to the methods of Mr. Byrnes in dealing with the issue. But both these things are beside the point. The real point is the harm it does the national morale for a conspicuous public figure openly to flout a measure urged by the President as essential to the war effort. It is not necessary to accept every Government action or to maintain that there should be overwhelmingly good reasons for doing that.

THE WHOLE business of conducting a successful war centers around popular support of the Government in the home program. If the Government lacks that the war cannot be effectively fought. If it lacks that, the victory will be postponed and the cost paid in casualties. It is one thing to oppose the Administration's domestic policies and performances; it is quite another with the struggle still in the critical stage to oppose its war program.

That should require complete justification. Most of the people agree with this, but there are groups and individuals who do not and these are so numerous and assertive as to make absurd any claim that this nation has ever been on a total war basis. It cannot be contended that we have put our full strength into the war. The shocking strike record by which war production has been impeded; the action of the Senate in rejecting the request of the chiefs of staff, supported by the President for a work or fight law; the defiance of the Government by certain labor leaders; and the hypocritical and phony attitude of certain others—all attest to the contrary. Finally, there is the LaGuardia incident, which, however trivial in one respect is important in others.

THESE things make a contention of total war untenable. From the start there has been far too much of this defiance of the Government's war requests. When open to question, these ought to be debated, criticized and protested, but they ought not to be defied without complete justification. Certainly, they ought not to be defied by groups selfishly concerned with their own selfish interests. But that is exactly what has been going on in this country. And it is worth noting, too, that in most cases the defiance and the resistance have come from Mr. Roosevelt's political and personal friends, not from those who oppose him politically.

Spring Brings Washington Annual Thrill
Buildings And Parks Are Fine Monuments
Sightseers Will Be Scarcer This SpringLOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

After making a careful study of more than five thousand boys and girls the Communist Service Society of New York has issued a report in which many of today's juvenile problems are blamed on "emotional malnutrition."

I like that term "emotional malnutrition." It says so much in just two words.

Emotional malnutrition, according to the report, is partly due to the war and to the absence of father or mother or both from home.

The child is too much on his own—he has to find his emotional food wherever he can.

But emotional malnutrition is often to be found even when both parents are home and could give their youngsters emotional food if they had any or enough of it in the house.

I have done a bit of studying of the problem on my own.

And I have found that emotional malnutrition exists mostly where the parents themselves are lacking in what I call Vitamin S—The spiritual vitamin.

Unfortunately, here in America, most of us are so busy trying to get rich and to have automobiles and refrigerators and radios and fur coats, that we haven't much time left for the acquisition of mental and spiritual prosperity.

How About It?

How many books have you in your home? How many of them are they? How many of them have you read and what have you retained as "emotional nutrition?"

You may criticize your girl for swooning over Frank Sinatra. To her that is an emotional outlet. What have you to give her that is better than Frank?

You may be opposed to your boy reading detective stories and comic books. Have you done anything to help him develop a taste for better things than those?

You blame the kids for going out nights and for not wanting to sit at home. What have you made their home for them except four walls of restraint, of criticism, of boredom?

Children learn by example. To make them do right you must make them enjoy right.

As we saw in the days of Volstead, and as we see again in the days of Byrnes' laws are obeyed only if they are approved by the people.

Children will obey the laws of decency, of morality, of culture and refinement, if they approve of them. It is up to you to make them want to obey the laws.

There is as much excitement in a Shakespearean drama as there is in a crime-story. But you must show them the beauties of Shakespeare, which, however, you cannot do unless you appreciate him yourself.

I hear so many people criticize jazz music and boogie-woogie and jitterbugging.

All right then, how much do you know about Verdi and Beethoven and Bach?

Maybe you think I shouldn't say all this out loud, maybe your kids will read it and say: "See? What business have you got to censure me?"

Well, let me tell you that kids do a lot of thinking of their own. Everything that I have written here was told to me by kids.

Kids are emotional. Feed their emotions. Give them nutritious food. Else they become scavengers. And then you call them juvenile delinquents!

DISCIPLINE NEEDED
IN CLASSROOM

It's delightful to see school children exercise wholesome self-restraint as they move about the classroom through the halls, or cafeteria or into the assembly room. I have seen this in many schools throughout the United States. When such examples of self-control appear there is evidence of very big immediate force by the teachers.

Don't Need More Gasoline To Enjoy Spring Picture Declare Local Instructors

People who have been complaining that they can't get enough gasoline to get out to enjoy the weather don't deserve so much sympathy; they would probably miss much of the spring anyway, because much of it is hidden around fallen trunks of buried deep in some tall grass, and some of it has come and is almost gone, according to both Nicholas Casillo, biology teacher at New Castle senior high school and Dr. Donald Matthews, professor of biology at Westminster college.

Skunk cabbage, the heat of which often melts the snow around it, has come and gone, and if you look closely under the fuzzy leaf of the wild ginger, you could see its small reddish-brown flower out in full now. The anemone, a cousin of the buttercup, is blooming now, and on southern exposure you might even find the fragrant trailing arbutus which Mr. Casillo has found in New Hampshire.

Snowdrops were found blooming around New Castle several weeks ago, and in two weeks more you could begin hunting through the deep woods for trillium or wake-robin, which in other years has been blooming in May.

Little Trailing Arbutus
According to Dr. Matthews, the only trailing arbutus around here is found in an old graveyard, the location of which he refuses to reveal. "People might dig the flower up," he explained, "and that stuff is protected. Many of these other spring flowers are protected, too, and the one which can be picked shouldn't be pulled out by the roots anyway; the stems could be neatly broken so that the plant would be left to bloom another year."

Mr. Casillo, however, is more optimistic about the amount of the arbutus or ground laurel in this locality, especially on a slope near the Wolf creek bridge on the road to Slippery Rock.

Found In Masses
Jacob's ladder with its bell-shaped flower, is found in masses on the slope above the swampy pond on the old plank road. Mr. Casillo has discovered, and Dr. Matthews recommends, looking under logs if you are after the "ghost flower" of Indian Pipe, which isn't a flower at all although most people think it is. It's just a plant that didn't get its share of chlorophyll—the stuff that makes green plants green.

Unless there is a sudden setback, violets will be blooming within the next three weeks—the earliest violets have been out for years, says Mr. Casillo. This locality, by the way, is remarkable for the amount of violets around, comments Dr. Matthews. They grow in the woods around his hometown, but in New Castle they come up through cracks in the sidewalk and get moved down with lawn mowers.

The dog-tooth violet, or perhaps you know it is the adder's tongue, is another flower that will probably be several weeks early this spring, and in case you're fond of wild strawberries, you could begin looking for the flower soon so that you'll know where the fruit is later. Ride a bus out to the edge of town and then start roaming around on your own, or spring will be gone before you've even seen it.

of the two. "Not a child in the entire class is in the least interested in knowing anything or has the least respect for authority. All of them are chronically disobedient."

"You're telling me!" said the other with pleasant lack of conversational grammar. "Mine pay absolutely no attention to what I am saying. When I turn my back I suddenly find groups of them standing at the window looking out. And when I say, 'Children, don't you know this is against the rules!' every last one of them has the same answer."

"Don't fence me in!"
Fever Sightseers
Washington likely won't be having its usual sightseers this spring. No egg rollers or such. Wisely directed visitors, if any, will skip those blocks of hideous streets thick with dirt underfoot and made of rundown houses and shacks. The famous beauty of Washington is highly concentrated in a few neighborhoods.

Sharply directed sightseers will look for those shining marble temples along Constitution avenue—the Department of Agriculture, Commerce and such. So alike are these temples that old residents forget they exist in the rush to make the green traffic light. The Pan-American Union is still the most romantic building in town and the old Smithsonian, its lilac walls pleasantly dulled by age, is a joy to the architectural nonconformist.

Rock Creek park is still the sweetest place in town. Nobody yet has cut its slow, winding roads into the sort of slivers that make Potomac park and that which was once the lovely Mr. Vernon boulevard a kind of noodle soup highway.

SORE MUSCLES
When a person does some unusual kind of work or takes some new exercise, the muscles and joints may be sore afterward.

Perhaps it is better to start new work or play gradually. Instead of moving the entire lawn, it might be better to mow part of it at a time for awhile.

If a person is going to play ball maybe it would be a good idea to do it by degrees. Play a few minutes every day till the body becomes accustomed to it.

By working up to it a little at a time, a lot of soreness and stiffness may be avoided.

THE WORLD AND THE MUD PUDDLES

are not even considering trying to find the way back, but on the contrary are drunkenly headed straight for Socialism.

History is filled with the experience of warriors who sought to conquer the world and rule by the sword. There was Genghis Khan, Alexander the Great, who mourned that he had no more worlds to conquer. Napoleon Bonaparte, who almost ruined the trick, and now Hitler, Mussolini, Hirohito, and to all appearances our pal, Joe Stalin—all out to rule by force but always nipped in the bud just short of their goal.

They have a new scheme now. Instead of by the sword they propose to rule by money and the control of credit, and they are plunging this country up to its necks unless Congress and the people take a hand and put a stop to it.

The first draft of the plans were submitted at Dumbarton Oaks and Bretton Woods, one to control world production and the other to control money and credit. In San Francisco representatives from forty-four nations are expected to gather to put the finishing touches on the schemes, and if they agree we will be bamboozled into the racket on the pretense that it is the only way to stay out of war. Not because it is good business.

Naturally, every civilized human wants to stay out of war. They would bend over backward and go to almost any length to prevent war, destruction and killing. There will be plenty of American homes bereaved when this war ends. They won't want any more war.

But times and conditions change. New generations come along and they may conclude that there are conditions needing a change, conditions and circumstances at present unknown, and they will be ready to fight for it and no League of Nations will stop them.

As to the wealth of the world and who owns and controls it, about all that is suggested under this new world order program is to take it away from the people who have earned and accumulated it, and turn it over to the politicians. That is what Dumbarton Oaks and Bretton Woods plans imply. And since America has the bulk of the wealth and power, it is indeed strange that our own American political leaders should be charting the course and insisting that we tear our life system apart, throw it away, and dump our wealth and savings into the world Jackpot with forty or more foreign nations telling us where to distribute it. Russian, the most audacious, independent and enigmatic of the bunch, has its hands out for Six Billions. France Four Billions and heaven only knows what the rest of them will think they should have.

Meanwhile, we at home will have a debt of three hundred billion dollars staring us in the face which will cost us six billion dollars annual interest. Operating the government will cost that much more, and that is not allowing anything for the Army, Navy, Marines, all equipment, highways or any other capital investments.

Business men, who are offensively referred to as "Big Business" have been indirectly informed that unless they prepare to absorb unemployment after the war, the Government will, and not many questions asked and fewer answered.

With government in control of both money and credit, Big Business or any other kind of business, will not have a Chinaman's chance to function. There will be no incentive to enterprise, to succeed, nor to accomplish aims that have distinguished business in this country.

With world politicians controlling international finance, will mean the America will be hobbled by limitations such as now prevail in Russia, where there is no such thing as private property. Not only business but labor as well will be put in a straitjacket and told what they must do, irrespective of their choice or desire.

That is the program being cooked up by this international group of politicians. They propose taking business out of the hands of banks and bankers where credit has been available on an independent profit basis, and putting it in the hands of political rulers where the pull will be the measure of excellence and success.

And that will spoil the end of America as a nation of destiny, of strength, of independence and of influence for good. It would be a cheap and cowardly and disastrous shirking of a God-given responsibility, and we will rue it to the end of our days.

Smoking Cure Too Rugged; Reporter Would Rather Wait

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS)—A reporter for the Oregonian decided the other day to try the cure of the Anti-Cigarette alliance to break himself of the weed-smoking habit.

The cure: Chewing five cents worth of gentian root or camomile blossoms when you need a fag (and can't find one).

Taking one-half teaspoonful each of Rochelle salt and cream of tartar before breakfast.

Eliminate highly-seasoned foods and stimulating drinks.

Shunning all smokers and smoke-filled rooms (shouldn't be hard these days).

Taking Turkish baths.

Thinking of something else (probably how much you want a cigarette).

After carefully following the cure, the reporter was spotted a few days later standing in a long, long line waiting for cigarettes.

FRANKFURT-ON-MAIN
Ancient and venerable, the city of Frankfurt-on-Main, where Patton's tanks today are reported probing the streets, is sometimes called the "Cradle of German Democracy."

But now the city, the third Reich's ninth largest, is getting its first glimpse of the democratic way of life in many a long year—the sight of jaunty G.I.s who have come to eradicate Hitler's totalitarianism.

Through the middle ages, Frankfurt was the principal site for the election of German kings and in 1815 it was made the seat of the German confederation. During the revolutionary period of 1848 it was the scene for leading political demonstrations. Carl Schurz, who was later to come to America and rise to eminence as Lincoln's secretary of the interior, played a part in these attempts to overthrow the German monarchy.

Frankfurt was always important to the trade of the Rhineland. It was a great center for printing and publishing but under the war-minded Nazis it became more important for its rolling stock, metal wares, rubber industries and chemical manufacturing. As a production center, it has been bombed frequently by Allied air forces.

It is the site of a famous cathedral founded in 852 by King Louis the German. Excavations near the cathedral indicate that the town dates back to the first century of the Christian era. The threads of history run through its streets—today perhaps more than ever.

German Soldiers
Slay Own People

WITH THE U.S. NINTH ARMY INSIDE GERMANY, March 27—(INS)—German soldiers machine-gunned a group of their own civilians after cursing them as traitors.

The victims were part of 6,500 persons trapped in a disused coal shaft which had been converted into an air-raid shelter. They were shot down in their tracks as they groped their way to the surface.

Many of the others are reported dying for lack of air, food, water and sanitation.

THE PARENT

these children at school are allowed to express themselves and share in the management of the affairs of the group so long as the welfare of others is practiced and guaranteed.

Lack Of Control
I have also visited in some other schools of this nation where children in the classroom, halls and assembly room revealed a low order of self-control. This situation is to be deplored. While there still are some classrooms where children are painfully repressed there also are others, especially at the primary grade levels, where children are not learning wholesome self-control but are practicing in just the opposite—and all too often under the guise of what is labeled by the "expert" as "good teaching."

I have visited in some primary classes advertised for their excellence and visited from far and wide as model classrooms, which have struck me as atrocious. Many of the children were talking all at once even while the teacher was trying to talk to their group. There were children at their seats talking aloud to themselves or their nearest classmates without any purpose I could ascertain except for self-expression. After half an hour in the room I have been all worn out; and some of the teachers, in spite of their apparent calm, gave evidence to me of being all stirred up inside. I wonder how they could stand it. I wonder why they should.

Effect On Children
My concern for the children, their nerves, their mental health and growth in character and citizenship. You and I can, of course, see value in children talking to one another when they are doing some cooperative work in a group, even when there are several such groups in the same room. This can be excellent. But what I was talking about is very different, as you know.

When classes of these children unpracticed in self-control finally enter the upper grades or junior high school, they may prove an awful trial to the teacher there who tries to maintain some desirable quiet and order. Most of us parents would prefer to have our young children in a classroom where they learn more self-control and have a reasonably quiet atmosphere in which to work, especially in these times when there are so many frigidly, excitable children.

BUNKER HILL, Ind., March 27. (INS) — The names of two fliers killed in the crash of a training plane from Bunker Hill naval air station were announced today as Second Lieut. Robert Walter Burkett, 20, U. S. Marine Corps pilot's

Rotary Hears Lieut. Braham

Butler Attorney, Stationed
At Deshon Hospital, Gives
Talk On Military Law

EXPLAIN HOW LAW FUNCTIONS

New Castle Rotary club members heard a splendid address at their noon luncheon meeting in The Castleton Monday, when Lt. Luther Braham of the Judge Advocate's department, who is stationed at Deshon hospital in the capacity of legal advisor to the wounded men there, discussed military law and its administration.

Lt. Braham, who is a cousin of Judge W. Walter Braham, was introduced by the judge. He is a resident of Butler, Pa.

The Judge Advocate's department, he stated, is one of the smallest in the Army, comprising some 2,000 officers. Men to gain admission to the department, must come up through the ranks, must be graduates of an accredited law school, be 28 years of age, and have had four years of active practice in civilian life, before they are eligible to attend the Army school at the University of Michigan.

Former Infantryman Lt. Braham spent some time at Fort Benning, Ga., training as an infantryman before he was selected to attend the school and become a commissioned officer in this department.

Those who serve on Army court martials as trial judge advocates, or as defense counsel are not always members of the judge advocate's department, he explained, and those who serve in this capacity are rendering extra duty.

He explained the various offenses for which those in the service are tried, and of how a court martial operates. After a man has been found guilty by a court martial, a regular judge advocate reviews the case and if an error in law is found, he stated, he can order a rehearing of the case. However, if the man has been acquitted, no rehearing can be held, nor can a man be subjected to an increased sentence at any such hearing.

In the case of the death penalty or a sentence involving the dismissal of an officer from the service, a board of review passes on the case, and it must then be confirmed by the President of the United States.

In addition to trying men for military crimes, the judge advocate's department also renders legal advice, and overseas, serve in captured territory as a military government, defends claims for damages committed by military personnel, and also prosecutes claims where damage to government property exceeds $25.

Guests from Deshon Annex were: Pfc. Timothy J. Donahue of Boston, Mass., who served in France with the 26th Division, and was wounded there, and T-Sgt. James Murray of New York City, who was wounded in France while serving with the 30th Division.

The 22-year-old bride was found strangled to death in their home in Savannah March 8.

Date of the court martial, which will be held at Hunter Field, Savannah, has not been set.

JAP BOMBERS ARE SHOT DOWN

Attempt To Attack Iwo Jima Proves
Disastrous To Japanese Bombers
On March 25-26

By JULIAN HARTT
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

GUAM, March 27. — Jap bombers which attempted to attack Iwo Jima apparently didn't know what hit them the night of March 25-26 as they plunged their crews to a flaming death under the sting of the Army's "Black Widow" night fighter planes.

That was the opinion expressed today by Lieut. Myrle William McCumber of Colorado Springs, Colo., pilot of an interceptor who was credited with destroying one Jap "Betty" and probably destroying another.

"We closed to less than 1,000 feet to make sure the Japs would never know what hit them," McCumber said. "We got the first one with two bursts. Parts broke off the 'Betty' and it started to come apart but we didn't see it hit the water. We only got credit for a 'probable' on that one."

Other members of McCumber's crew were Flight Officer Daniel Hinz of Milwaukee, Wis., and Sgt. Bernard Boscardin of (257 Alpine avenue) Pittsburgh, Pa.

The crew previously was credited with a kill when Jap bombers attacked Saipan.

Capt. Ernest Thomas of San Francisco destroyed a "Betty" before it closed to within bombing range.

"We had to close fast and shoot quick," Thomas declared. "After one short burst the Jap caught fire and burned all the way down from 20,000 feet before he hit the water."

Report Hitler Broken Down

German Civilian Gives Graphic Picture Of Reported Visit To Fueh-rer's Hideout

By PIERRE J. HUSS

(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

GODESBERG ON THE RHINE.

March 27.—A graphic picture of Adolf Hitler as he is today—physically broken and shattered—was reported today by a German civilian whose now-captured officer brother was decorated in the Fuehrer's headquarters only a month ago.

The informant's identity cannot be disclosed. But I am writing his story verbatim—and with grim fitness I am sitting at Hitler's own desk in his private suite at the Dreesen hotel, the picturesque Rhineland hideout where the Fuehrer first received and browbeated the late Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain prior to the Munich conference.

The account of Hitler's physical and mental state was brought back to Godesberg by the brother when he arrived for a two weeks' leave granted him by the Fuehrer along with the decoration. He was captured soon after his return but here is the story he told his brother:

Tells Of Visit

"I arrived by train as instructed at Naumburg, where a couple of other officers were waiting with similar orders. That evening we were given dinner at Naumburg and afterward proceeded by automobile to an unknown destination.

"Maybe an hour later we left the car in the semi-darkness of a half-moon and went on foot up a wooded hill.

"We passed what looked like a heavily-guarded barracks and then entered a rather huge bunker of concrete and steel. We hung our caps and coats in a sort of hallway and then blinked in the strong light of an oblong room after going down many flights of stairs.

Shocked By Appearance

"I personally looked at the Fuehrer with shock and think the others did too. He remained seated most of the time. He was obviously in wretched health and so nervous that his hands shook and several times he stuttered slightly as he talked.

"The old fire in his voice and speech was gone.

"He appeared to be mentally alert but, as we later found out, he has a persecution complex. After the decoration we talked for some moments about the hard course of the war and Hitler seemed implicitly confident that Germany would come out on top provided the people stood with him unwaveringly. Otherwise, he predicted a dire fate for Germany at the hands of Jewish capitalism and Bolshevism.

"He ended the audience with a handshake, and without getting up said to us: 'You see, gentlemen, the last months have also left their mark on me.'

NEWS AND VIEWS AT CAPITAL

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 26.—The refusal of Lt. Gov. John C. Bgl Jr. to accept a seat on the state superior court has aroused much speculation on Capitol Hill as to his future in Republican politics.

In rejecting Gov. Edward Martin's offer, Bgl did not reveal his personal reasons but it was felt he was aiming at the GOP gubernatorial nomination in 1946.

The 52-year-old one-time tennis champion was a candidate for the GOP gubernatorial nomination in 1942 but withdrew in favor of Governor Martin and then became his running mate.

Bgl is a political lieutenant of Joseph N. Pew Jr., GOP financier and millionaire shipbuilder and oil man.

In a Lincoln's Day address at Williamsport, Bgl startled the old line GOP when he demanded a more liberal Republican platform and the ouster of "reactionary leaders."

Two Republican legislators have sponsored a measure which would make five legislative committees "interim committees" to serve while the general assembly is in recess.

Reps. Fred P. Hare Jr. of Somerset, and W. Stuart Helm of Armstrong county introduced the bill which would make permanent the Senate and House appropriations and highways committees and the House Ways and Means committee.

The measure would appropriate $10,000 for operating expenses during the biennium beginning June 1.

Each committee would receive $2,000.

The Department of Internal Affairs has compiled a 248-page document detailing "Pennsylvania's Mineral Heritage" and disclosing that 350 mineral species have been identified in the commonwealth.

Only about 10 per cent, however, "have proved to be of great commercial importance," the report stated.

Although the state's minerals have been used for more than 250 years, it was added, resources have been only "seriously" depleted since 1900.

"Measured by quantity," it was asserted, "Pennsylvania is the leading producer of anthracite, raw clay, mineral paints, stone, cement, coke and associated by-products, pig iron, ferro-alloys, steel, glass and refractories."

The state ranks second as a producer of lime and bituminous coal.

The overall mineral production is valued at one billion dollars a year, a figure not touched by any other state.

It appeared that Turner was attempting to get in the first blow before pure stream opponents could rally forces to weaken the measure in the upper chamber. . . Patton Says U. S. Tanks Superior

Third Army Commander Says 'No Country Has Tanks Superior To Ours'

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(INS)—Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, whose tanks are slugging it out across Germany, is convinced that in mechanical endurance and ease of maintenance, American tanks are "infinitely superior" to any in the war, the War department revealed today.

In a letter to Lieut. Gen. Thomas T. Handy, deputy chief of staff, on March 19, Patton attributed attacks on American tanks to "perhaps deliberately mendacious individuals," and added that, since last August 1, his Third Army's tank casualties were 1,136 tanks while 2,287 German tanks, including 808 of the Tiger or Panther variety, were accounted for.

Best For Endurance

Patton's letter said: "These figures of themselves refute any inferiority of our tanks, but let me add that the Third Army has always attacked, and therefore better than 70 per cent of our tank casualties have occurred from dug-in anti-tank guns and not enemy tanks, whereas a majority of the enemy tanks put out have been put out by our tanks."

"In mechanical endurance and ease of maintenance, our tanks are infinitely superior to any tank in the theatre of war. The outstanding advantage which our tanks possess over the German tank is the mechanical traverse and stabilizer, through the use of which we get most of our kill."

Passover Will Start Wednesday

National Holiday Will Be Observed By Jewish Community For Period Of Eight Days

SYNAGOGUES PLAN SPECIAL SERVICES

Passover, the national birthday of the Jewish people will be ushered in Wednesday evening at sunset and will continue for a period of eight days, with Rabbi Leo E. Turitz in charge of services at Temple Israel synagogue, and Rabbi Hyman Krash in charge of services at Tifereth Israel synagogue, during this holiday season.

Following the services Wednesday evening, Passover services will continue on Thursday evening. At Tifereth Israel synagogue further services will also be held Friday morning and evening.

The idea of human liberty has become an outstanding characteristic of the Jewish people ever since the deliverance from Egyptian bondage. Passover is celebrated in commemoration of the emancipation of the Jewish people from the slavery of the oppressive Pharaohs. This idea finds most beautiful expression in the Seder service. The family assembles around one table, partakes of one service with hopes and aspirations of a brighter future and with great ideals for the betterment and improvement of the world. The various symbols of the Seder denote the cherished ideals of freedom and liberty and the desire to acquire this right for all mankind.

During Passover the Jewish people are not permitted to eat of leavened bread and may only eat "Matzah"—unleavened bread. The Matzah is a reminder of slavery and a symbol of freedom. Since it has not been allowed to raise, it is a reminder of poverty and is therefore known as the "bread of affliction." It also carries a further significance that the hurried departure to freedom did not permit meticulous baking and the bread remained unleavened in the march to liberty.

Especially significant is the message of Passover today, when totalitarian tyranny has run amuck in the world running and devastating civilized countries under an iron-hand rule, crushing the very thought of liberty and democracy, and casting millions of humans into slavery. Again the eyes of all peoples turn heavenward with the prayer that the miracles of the Almighty may break assunder the shackles of enslavement and cause liberty to prevail over dictatorship so that a common brotherhood of all men may be established on earth.

Services at Temple Israel will be conducted by Rabbi E. Turitz, with vesper prayer services Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock. Thursday morning services will be conducted at 10:30 o'clock.

Services at Tifereth Israel synagogue will be conducted by Rabbi Hyman Krash Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Thursday morning services will be at 8:30 o'clock, and in the evening at 7:30 o'clock. Friday morning services will be at 8:30 o'clock.

Pfc. Rentz Solves Hot Cake Problem; Uses Tooth Powder

(Special To The News)

WITH THE THIRD DIVISION OF THE 7TH ARMY IN FRANCE—The men of a 7th infantry platoon all wanted hot cakes with the meal they were preparing. A captured railroad station netted a carload of Jerry flour, a lone cow wandering around the deserted town was still in condition to produce a little milk and the sounds of a cackling hen, coming from a roofless barn, told the men they had an egg, but to make hot cakes they had to have baking powder, none was available. Then Pfc. Richard E. Rentz of 219 Winter avenue, New Castle, Pa., suggested using tooth powder—a combination of salt and soda. The hot cakes were a great success.

With Corp. Clyde Chilcote of 1559 East 84th street, Cleveland, O., and Pfc. Si Drucker of 713 Van Sicken avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., doing the cooking, a feast of spaghetti with meat sauce, salami, sour pickles, cookies, honey and jam for the hot cakes was set before Pfc. John Cantley of Foster, West Va., Pfc. Harold Purch of Alexander City, Ala., and Pfc. Robert Dutil of William, Calif.

The Third division men felt very well over the elbow that the Jerries had so generously left behind, until the sour pickles and hot cakes took effect, the medics then added to the menu by dishing out a few counter-acting pills.

Employment Office Will Remain Open Wednesday Evening

Because of the success of last week's "open house" and the continued need for full-time, part-time and supplemental workers, the U. S. Employment Service office will be open Wednesday evening from seven until nine o'clock, with employers from local industries on hand to talk with those who are interested in inquiring about the jobs, George R. Gettings, manager of the office, said this morning.

The positions are open to male applicants, 16 years of age and over, who are not employed in essential industries now.

WOMEN URGED TO MAKE MOST USE OF FABRICS

As supplies of household fabrics dwindle and you cannot buy replacement materials, repair and re-use those you have on hand. Find out exactly what you need then plan to make the best use of materials you have.

Faded fabrics or those unsuitable in color but which are firm can be dyed the desired color. The better parts of the large pieces can be salvaged for making smaller articles or combined into one large piece.

Discarded draperies of rep, shantung, or other sturdy cotton may be remade into other draperies, slip covers, or covering for chair pads. The best of a large slip cover may be made into a smaller one or combined with another material for the large chair. Discarded pieces may be good enough for shoe bags, laundry bags, or dress protectors.

Upholstery material can be cleaned and dyed if it is faded. Pieces may be used for smaller articles, such as covering for a smaller chair or footstool, or for a knitting bag or hand bag.

Sheets that are too worn for repair often have good parts that can be used for pillowcases made with seams down both sides, or kitchen window curtains, or ironing board covers.

Because glass curtains wear out first at the bottom, the upper parts still are good. The upper parts of a long pair may be made into a sill length pair or the top parts of several matching pairs may be pieced together for regular length curtains. Make wide tucks or use bands of bias or other material to cover the seams. There should be more than one tuck or row of trimming though only one piecing is needed.

Homemakers who have supplies of feed bags may make them into dresses, tablecloths, sheets, pillowcases, slip covers, curtains, shoe and laundry bags, and numerous other household articles.

After fabrics have outlived their usefulness in draperies, slip covers, and the like, the best parts of them may be salvaged and used for braided or hooked rugs. The rest may go into the scrap bag for cleaning cloths.

SOURCE OF VITAMIN "C"

Lucky is the homemaker who has a good supply of canned tomatoes on hand, for they may be served at any meal during the day and in many different ways.

Start the day with a glass of tomato juice for breakfast. It gives that certain zest a breakfast needs to appeal to the family. If you are out of tomato juice, strain canned tomatoes. Serve the juice plain or season it with salt and pepper and a little lemon juice if desired.

Cream of tomato soup, macaroni and tomatoes, tomatoes and cheese, rice and tomatoes lima bean and tomato casserole, and tomato rabbit are hearty dishes that may be served for lunch or supper.

To make cream of tomato soup without curdling, try the following method: measure out half as much tomatoes as milk. Add to the tomatoes a slice of onion, a teaspoon of butter, and salt and pepper to taste. Bring to simmering point. Heat milk till beads form around edge of pan. Just before ready to serve, add the hot tomatoes and seasonings to hot milk, stirring constantly, and serve at once.

Tomatoes are a good source of vitamin "C" which helps keep the mouth and gums in a healthy condition, helps build strong teeth, and helps build up resistance to infections. Because vitamin "C" cannot be stored in the body, a good source of this vitamin is needed every day. A person who does not get enough vitamin "C" daily may be cross, restless, have a run-down feeling, and his gums swell and bleed.

Ask Extension Of Coal Parley

Government Requests 30-Day Extension Of Existing Wage Contracts In Mine Situation

WASHINGTON, March 27—(INS)—Soft coal operators and mine union officials met today to draft their reply to the government's request for a thirty-day extension of the industry's existing wage agreement, scheduled to expire at midnight Saturday.

The request was transmitted to the 15-member joint negotiating committee by Solid Fuels Administrator Harold L. Ickes. Last week's cabinet meeting decided that Ickes, and not the army, will again operate the mines in event seizure is necessary to maintain production.

An estimated 400,000 miners throughout the nation will vote tomorrow on whether they wish to authorize a general wage stoppage as result of the wage dispute with the operators.

Ickes asked for an extension of the existing contract until May 1 "in order that we may have a bare minimum of coal to enable to fight the war to avoid extreme hardship on the homefront."

U. M. W. President John L. Lewis was believed ready to assent to the contract extension if assured that any subsequent wage adjustments are made retroactive to April 1. Ickes requested such retroactivity.

Mine owners are strenuously opposed to the retroactive feature. Even if coal prices ultimately are raised to cover any wage increases negotiated with Lewis, they cannot be made retroactive, the operators point out.

Few airports capable of handling the large new transport planes exist in Latin America, says the U. S. Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs.

Seek To Secure More Beef From Canada For U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 27—(INS)—Government officials predicted today new developments will be forthcoming shortly in efforts by the United States to secure release of surplus beef from Canada to help ease America's meat crisis.

This coincided with assertion by Lt. Col. Ralph Olmstead, director of supplies for the Commodity Corporation, that Canada has imposed an embargo on beef shipments to the United States.

It was understood that this government has put heavy pressure on Canada to "jar loose" beef for meat-hungry Americans—either by increasing Canadian shipments to England and thus relieving U. S. lend-lease allocations to Great Britain or by lifting the embargo for direct shipment to this country.

At the same time, the Canadian embassy in Washington unashamedly a barrage of facts to refute Capitol Hill recommendations that Canada should ship more beef and other meats to Great Britain to alleviate the U. S. shortage.

Pvt. George A. Smith, Jr., of Holland, Vt., complains in a letter home that he is "seeing the war through an ambulance window." He has been wounded five times.

Four-Power Allied Government Plan For Germany Rushed

Actual Structure Of Government For Germany Is Now Being Framed

By LEON PEARSON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 27.—In an effort to keep pace with the rapid movement of Allied armies, preparations were being rushed today for the four-power Allied government of Germany.

Washington officials disclosed for the first time the actual structure of that government, which is expected to control Germany for generations to come.

At the top will be the four commanding generals representing the occupying powers—United States, Great Britain, Russia and France. They will constitute the Allied control council of Germany.

On the next level will be a coordinating committee charged with working out a common policy, so far as possible, in the four zones of occupation.

Series Of Commissions

On the third level will be a series of 12 four-man commissions, each charged with handling the affairs of the various ministries of the former German government—war, navy, air, transportation post and telegraph, foreign affairs, etc.

Each commission will be run by four generals, one from each of the four Allied nations. In the case of the foreign ministry, however, the control will be in the hands of civilians, with Ambassador Robert D. Murphy representing the United States.

It was also disclosed that both Washington and London are trying to avoid firmly fixed boundaries for the various occupation zones, and to establish instead "flexible boundaries" in recognition of the economic inter-dependence of the various regions of Germany.

REPORTED HURT

Earl Blivins, 210 East Washington street, sustained head injuries at 5 o'clock Monday when material fell from the Croton avenue garage of the New Castle Dry Goods Co., according to a police report at headquarters. He was taken into the store and given first aid treatment.

National Radiator Company Receives Safety Recognition

Certificate Of Safety Achievement Awarded To New Castle Plant In Nationwide Drive

National Radiator company received word from the United States Department of Labor, Division of Labor Standards, Washington, D. C., that the National and Century plants in Johnstown and the New Castle, Pa., plant qualified for a certificate of safety achievement in the nationwide drive for a million fewer industrial accidents by reducing accident frequency for the period of July through December, 1944, compared with the corresponding period in the previous year.

Any industrial plant or unit within a plant whose average employment during the period of achievement is not less than 50 is eligible and will receive the certificate by producing an accident frequency rate, during either the last six months of 1944 or the first six months of 1945, which is at least 40 per cent lower than the rate for the preceding year.

It was announced by Robert S. Waters, president, that during the first qualifying period of the campaign the three plants receiving the award had aided in conserving the nation's critical manpower and speeding war production. The certificate should serve as a permanent reminder that accidents can be prevented and that their prevention is beneficial to the health and well-being of the members of the organization and to the war effort, as well as to our national economy. The Union and Plastic Metals plants in Johnstown were not entered in the campaign because they had no accidents during the comparative period in 1943.

Pfc. John R. Martin Killed On Iwo Jima

May Rescue 50,000 Allied Prisoners Held In Burma

NEW YORK, March 27.—(INS)—The Japanese beat to death 20,000 American, British and Australian prisoners in constructing the one enemy supply line left in Burma, according to the estimate today of Major Frank Owen, a member of the Southeast Asia command staff.

A former editor of the London Evening Standard, Major Owen said there was hope of rescuing another 50,000 Allied prisoners held by the Japs in Burma, a mission already begun by the forces under Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten.

"We have the Japanese locked in the plain of Mandalay and I think we will kill them there," he said.

The major declared that the Japs undertook to build the Bangkok-rangoon railway immediately after the fall of Singapore, completing the project in eighteen months "by flooding prisoners into it, about 70,000 in number of whom 20,000 are now dead."

Memorial For M. H. McConnell

Tribute To Memory Of Late Chief
Petty Officer Is Given At
R. P. Church Service

At the Reformed Presbyterian church, Oak street, a memorial service was conducted on Sunday morning in honor of the late Chief Petty Officer Meldon Henry McConnell.

The memorial address was given by the pastor, Dr. E. A. Crooks; the personal sketch was read by Mrs. S. L. Wilson and taps by Boy Scout William Sumner of troop 15; the benediction was pronounced by the pastor.

Officer McConnell lost his life in November 10, 1944, in the Pacific, as a crew member of a munitions ship, which was completely destroyed on that date by an accidental explosion, with no survivors.

He was a son of the late W. H. and Margaret Gardner McConnell of this city, born August 1, 1914, both parents dying within 1 1/2 years of his birth. He made his home for a number of years with brothers and sisters, and eventually with Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Wilson of Union township, and graduated from Union high school in May, 1932.

Before enlisting in the service he was employed by the Ohio Edison Co. at Toronto, O.

Surviving members of his family are W. N. McConnell, Mrs. H. G. Williams, Mrs. Francis Anderson of this city, Carlisle G. McConnell of Toronto, O., and Mrs. S. G. Bragham of Greenville.

PHILADELPHIA, March 27.—(INS)—One man was killed today and another was injured in an explosion aboard a ship being overhauled at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

Jesse Hagan, 25, of Philadelphia, a Negro laborer, died enroute to the Philadelphia Naval hospital, the Fourth Naval district announced.

The injured man was identified as Earl Johnson, Negro cooper-smith, also of Philadelphia. Cause of the blast, which ripped through a forward compartment below decks, was not announced by the Navy, which said that Hagan and Johnson were the only persons in the section at the time.

Flames which followed were extinguished "in a few minutes," the Navy said, with only "minor damage to the vessel."

'Annie's Bar' Falls Victim To Nazi Bombs

By DOREN DIPPER
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON—Few people knew that the British House of Commons had its own drinking bar.

Had, because Hitler bombs have destroyed the House, and with it, the bar.

"Annie's Bar" as it was affectionately called by its customers wasn't everyone's idea of a drinking den. It was small, dark, shabby and badly equipped, but it was an essential part of the life of the House of Commons.

Rosy-cheeked, motherly Annie Gilbert had served there since 1913. She knew all her customers by name, knew their favorite drinks, their private views and their various moods. Annie was never overruled by a prime minister. To her, he was just an elderly gentleman hurrying in for a drink and a sandwich. She had served four successive prime ministers in her time.

Like all other bars in the Palace of Westminster, Annie's had no licensing laws. It remained open the whole time the House of Commons was sitting. It wasn't unusual for Annie to stay there until 3 o'clock in the morning.

During a division in the House, it was the custom to lock the door of the bar. This meant that any guests of the members had permission to stay there until their hosts returned.

It is hoped by all M. P.'s that plans for rebuilding the House of Commons will include a new bar for Annie with none of the drawbacks of the old one.

Transportation To Improve After War

MT. VERNON, O., March 27.—(INS)—A three-cornered battle in the post-war period which will ultimately result in revolutionary improvement in the nation's transportation system, today was predicted by Gordon Lefebvre, president and general manager of the Cooper-Bessemer Corporation.

The battle will be between the coal interests, which include coal mine owners, railroads carrying coal and owning coal mines, steam turbine manufacturers and proponents, and the diesel engine industry, Lefebvre said.

"Whatever the outcome, the public will be the winner by reason of improvements in railroad transportation which are bound to result in better service, faster schedules and a number of other advantages, depending upon which of these three major interests win," he declared.

Brazilian Pilots Get Triple Pay While Overseas

WITH THE BRAZILIAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Italy, Jan. 25.—(INS)—Brazil's big money is high flying and his paid. Individually American airmen in Italy have had little chance as yet to gage the flying qualities of their allies in the newly arrived Brazilian Air Force. But on the question of salaries they have no need for further acquaintance to have an already healthy respect.

For example, First Lt. George A. Vidal of Rio de Janeiro flies a Piper Cub observation plane for the artillery. He earns a monthly salary of 1,000 dollars. On an adjacent field, flying the same type plane in the same job is First Lt. Richard Hynson of Baltimore, O. He earns 300 dollars monthly.

"That includes allowances for my wife and child as well as extras like my flying pay," explained Hynson, adding fervently, "But, boy, oh boy, one thousand bucks!"

To finance officer for the Brazilian artillery observation group which flies in conjunction with American units explained how Brazilian overseas salaries add up to such astronomical figures.

"A flyer gets three times his normal salary, plus four times his flying pay for overseas duty," Lt. Jose Cunha of Bahia, said.

The overseas multiple works out into impressive salaries for soldiers of the Brazilian Expeditionary forces as well. Men of the American army, long used to a top bracket position in paymaster realms, are impressed. Throughout the Fifth Army front, American G.I.s refer with awe to the Brazilians as "the highest paid army in the world."

It is best to buy nutmegs, cloves, peppercorns and cinnamon sticks whole and grind them when needed.

BEER KEGS HAUL GAS

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa.—(INS)—A government employee discovering aluminum beer kegs in a warehouse, suggested they be converted for shipping gasoline and oil. The suggestion was impractical, but in it was born the idea of aluminum gasoline drums, weighing 21 pounds compared with 32 pounds for the conventional type. Today, lightweight aluminum drums, made by Aluminum Company of America, make possible delivery of thousands of extra gallons of gasoline per month in the China-Burma-India theater.

RUBBER FROM GRAIN

NEW YORK.—(INS)—War alcohol sufficient to make synthetic rubber for 10,500 medium tanks was shipped by Schenley Distillers Corp. in September, the company's 2,794,583 gallon output for that month equalling a year's production of 9,781,033 natural rubber trees.

FAIR OR FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK, March 27.—Joe Bakst is going to throw some punches at his former boss on Friday night at Madison Square Garden when he tangles up with Lou Nova in a 10-rounder, for this is another of those cases where a former sparring partner meets his erstwhile tormentor—and for keeps.

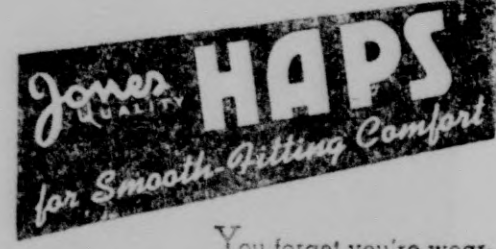

There is nothing lower in the scale of human endeavor than being a sparring partner, yet it is an essential part of the prize-fighting business and a sometimes lucrative trade when there is plenty of work around. But it doesn't pay nearly as well as being in the ring as a main event participant and the lumps you get hurt just as much. You simply don't feel just as much at the time.

Human Guinea Pig

They get you in the brain later on and finally you are washed up and a stumbling unable even to work at the chore of stopping punches as a sparring partner.

When one of these guinea pigs manages to hit the big time and there find himself against the old boss who paid him so many dollars a day to absorb punishment for a living the aforesaid guinea pig takes extreme delight in trying to tango that opponent's head into the upper gallery.

Fish And Game Probe Is Urged

House Passes Resolution Demanding Investigation, Senate Likely To Concur

HARRISBURG, March 27.—(INS)—A house-approved resolution demanding an investigation of the fish and game commissions was received in the senate today for possible concurrence.

The sponsors of the resolution, Republican Reps. Clyde H. Turbett, of Millin and George A. Gooding, of York, proposed the investigation be carried out by the Bi-Partisan joint state government commission and the agency's findings be submitted to the General Assembly no later than March 1, 1947. Party lines were crossed but the proposal carried by a vote of 91 to 67.

Merger Suggested
The resolution claimed "abuse" had been directed at the commissions and while the allegations may have been erroneous "it is still sufficient to raise a doubt as to the efficiency of those two very important parts of the state government."

House Minority Leader Hiram G. Andrews, of Cambria, opposed the resolution because its wording prejudged commissioners before the investigation was initiated.

The sponsors pointed out that Gov. Edward Martin had said a member of the commissions had been suggested to improve administration.

DePaul Thumps Bowling Green

Big George Mikan Scores 34 Points In Great Garden Exhibition, Score 71 To 54

NEW YORK, March 27.—(INS)—DePaul's Blue Demons today held the National Invitation Basketball Tournament Championship as scorers set down new records for big George Mikan, the quietest pacer-maker and this season's Mr. Basketball himself.

Despite an injured leg which gave him painful trouble, Mikan last night scored 34 points to give DePaul a 71 to 54 victory over Bowling Green at Madison Square Garden. This not only put the tournament crown on the Blue Demons but gave them the right to meet the winner of tonight's NCAA final battle between NYU and Oklahoma A and M for the benefit of the Red Cross Thursday night.

With last night's score and others of the tournament—including his record 53 points against Rhode Island State—Mikan had a new Garden high of 120 points in three games. He also made "tournament" records by netting the most field goals, 49, in three games and the most free throws, 22, in the same period.

Costner Kayoed By Jack LaMotta

New Yorker Kayoes Cincinnati Negro In Sixth Round Of Chicago Bout

CHICAGO, March 27.—(INS)—The second knockout in a row suffered by George Costner, this time at the hands of Jack LaMotta, New York middleweight, convinced fight fans today that the Cincinnati Negro puncher was not ready for the top-notchers.

LaMotta sent Costner down for the count in the sixth round of their scheduled 10-round bout before a crowd of 11,115 spectators last night at the Chicago Stadium. Gross receipts were $45,485.

The payoff punch was an explosive left hook to the jaw, but Costner had been in trouble before, going to the canvas once in the first round and barely missing being counted out in the sixth shortly before the hostilities were ended in 2 minutes and 21 seconds of that round.

CAMPFIRE CORNER

WHAT KIND OF A PUP?

Selection of the breed of pup you intend to rear for hunting purposes depends primarily, of course, upon what sort of game you want him to hunt. If you're a conch chasing enthusiast and no other factors enter into your choice you'll pick a red-bone, blue tick or one of the other breeds. If you expect to hunt rabbits, a beagle or bassett, or a whole pack of them, will best serve your purpose.

If you're looking primarily for a retriever the list of breeds is long and varied. English and Irish setters, and pointers, rate tops in the Bob White field, and some can be trained for pheasant and grouse hunting, too. It's never a good idea to rely upon a dog for performance of tasks for which he isn't fitted by benefit of ancestry. It's an off-color notion, for instance, to buy a collie with the hope of making a retriever of him, though that's been done, strange as it may seem.

Home for Dog

But other considerations besides those concerned with hunting are involved, too. Chief of these is the sort of home you can give your dog. I firmly believe that any hunting dog is more or less out of place in a city. A large one is pretty certain to prove a nuisance to your- self and your neighbors as well. So if it comes to choosing between a big Labrador or Chesapeake on the one hand and a cocker or springer spaniel on the other, if you're a city dweller you'll do well to select one of the smaller breeds.

There are hunting strains of coon dogs that seem to do pretty well in an urban environment. Be sure your selection comes of a hunting strain, however, and don't expect too much of him in the field. He'll work until he drops if you permit him to do so, but he's just too small to stand the gaff of long, steady and frequent hunting. The same holds good for the pointer, except that the latter is larger and stronger and can stand a little tougher going. For the hunter who frequents the uplands and marshes only a few times each season and doesn't require a dog to hunt too strenuously or in extreme or difficult cover, the springer may well prove the ideal retriever and flushed.

Only one breed of spaniel, the Brittany, is a pointer. I know of him mostly by hearsay, having had little experience with him. He's worth investigating if you are looking for an "all-around" hunting dog, but I doubt whether this breed can compete with setters and pointers in their own specialized field.

Harris Wins By Split Decision

Pittsburgh Fans Boo Decision Given Harris Over Cowboy Shank

PITTSBURGH, March 27.—(INS)—Ossie "Bulldog" Harris, Pittsburgh middleweight, today extended his win streak to five after beating "Cowboy" Reuben Shank of Denver to a split decision last night.

The crowd of 3,378 fans booed the decision vociferously for a full 10 minutes after it was announced, but experts agreed that the "Cowboy" showed considerable rustiness in his first ring appearance in 10 months.

ALTHOUGH Johnny-jump-ups have not poked their head above Mother Earth that has come out of winter hibernation the king of West Pittsburgh baseball—Ralph Fundoots—and if everything goes the way Fundoots hopes it will, West Pittsburgh will be represented in the city loop again this year. Ralph or "Blackie" as his baseball friends call him, circulated uptown Monday and his chief topic was baseball. During the latter part of the league season in '44, his outfit turned in some upsets and frightened the leaders. Although war and its call has called many good baseball players to the colors, Fundoots hopes to round up an aggregation that, if everything goes as he now anticipates, will put West Pittsburgh's name near the top, if not actually upon the first rung this summer.

Allied Strategy May Delay Move To Take Berlin

Believe Allies Aiming To Divide German Forces
Into Several Segments

By JOHN A. REICHMANN

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Allied strategy east of the Rhine appeared aimed at cutting the once proud Wehrmacht into several good-sized but digestible chunks and to deny to Adolf Hitler the comfort of a last stand in the south German mountains.

The success of such a plan, it was believed, should eliminate the possibility that Hitler might take a "last stand" in the hope of dissension developing among the Allies. It might shorten the war by weeks and possibly months and, ultimately, reduce the number of troops needed for police purposes in Germany after the Nazis collapse.

Germans Disorganized

As viewed by military experts in Washington the three thrusts made across the Rhine are developing at a pace which indicates complete disorganization among the Germans. Reports of the number of prisoners taken and the general apprehension of German broadcasts, imply that this may turn a moment into complete demoralization for most of the enemy armed forces and chaos for the civilian population.

At the same time, the increased tempo of activity along the Russian front gives a hint that an early juncture of forces between the east and the west was planned at Yalta and that it may come sooner than most expect.

See Fast Advance

Now that the outer perimeter of the Rhine defenses have been pierced, it was noted, the heavy supply or armor already spearheading all three prongs of the Allied crossings may be able to move at a date unprecedented since the drive across France.

Any or all of these drives may be aimed at Berlin. But there is also a good chance that neither the Allies nor the Red army will attempt to take that heavily fortified city of rubble at present. Strategy aimed at linking up the forces from east and west at several points, cutting the Wehrmacht into three or more segments would fit in well with the strategy used by the Soviet in its repeated drives across Russia and Poland. It would also follow the design in France when spearheads from the south and west joined to encircle as many German forces as possible.

With these junctures made, Hitler would find it difficult, if not impossible, to rally any substantial force in the southern mountains. Movements of men and materials north or south would be denied the German high command. Then the process of reducing the bypassed strongpoints could be undertaken leisurely and methodically.

M-Sgt. L. L. Dwyer Wins Bronze Star

(Special To The News)

WITH THE SEVENTH ARMORED DIVISION—Master Sgt. Lawrence L. Dwyer, Jr., 725 Croton avenue, has received the bronze star for meritorious service as a maintenance platoon sergeant in the 38th armored infantry battalion.

According to his citation, Sgt. Dwyer "kept his maintenance platoon in close support of the battalion and on one occasion his control point was the only one in operation near our troops. For two days he and his men did repair work for the entire division."

M-Sgt. Dwyer is the son of Mrs. Sylvia Dwyer, 725 Croton avenue.

ELLWOOD SERGEANT TAKES COMMAND OF GROUP UNDER FIRE

First Sgt. John F. Morgan, 415 Hillside avenue Ellwood City, has been awarded the bronze star for assuming command of an infantry platoon during an attack on open terrain when there was a pressing need for officer leadership elsewhere.

Although the terrain favored the enemy with excellent observation and afforded little cover or protection to the attacking forces, Sgt. Morgan's display of courage and valor before the enemy so inspired his men that they went into the attack with such aggressiveness and ferocity that they were able to attain their objective with a minimum of casualties.

The sergeant is the son of Mrs. Ellen Morgan of Ellwood City.

WOULD TAKE OVER EXPENSE
Under the terms of a bill now before the General Assembly the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania would take over the expense of registering the vital statistics in the various counties. As it is now, the county has to pay fifty cents for each birth and death, as it is recorded by the registrar.

VISITS COMMISSIONERS
The county commissioners have a distinguished visitor Monday morning, John A. Gorgasz who resides near Wampum. When you are introduced to Mr. Gorgasz you notice a long livid scar on his neck which reaches across the windpipe. As he walks you notice a limp.

NOW SHE SHOPS "CASH AND CARRY"

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers believe nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidney is Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or empty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Both of them are souvenirs of the western front. The limp came from thirteen pieces of shell fragment which hit him. The scar is the reminder of a hand-to-hand combat with a German soldier. Gorgasz closed with the German, both of them armed with knives.

In the melee the German slashed Gorgasz' neck with his knife but it was the last person he ever slashed with anything.

Mr. Gorgasz was gotten back to a surgeon and later to various hospitals, ending his army days in the Deshon General Hospital. He is home now, in civilian clothes and his present ambition is to secure a position as the RFD mail carrier in his section of the county. Off hand we couldn't think of a better man to be given a government job. It is because of men like John Gorgasz that we have a government.
